

108
To Mrs J. King.

You now have to choose whether or not you and George are destroyed by the truth, or just George. If you are destroyed by the media Sophie will suffer enormously. I explained in detail in the last letter how the truth will come out.

I don't think George will be to impressed with these options, might be best to keep this to yourself, and read it carefully several times.

There are now only two options for you.

1. Help me clear my name, put things right so that the media find out all the good stuff and not the bad, and protect yourself and Sophie. I will help you in that by saying the right things in the right way and make out you are a good person who got trapped in a bad situation, but put things right in the end. That way you survive.
2. The alternative is to continue with your nonsense in which case I win as explained. The campaign goes ahead quickly and smoothly and the facts about your different statements are revealed to the media. No doubt Prof Spence and his colleagues with the MRI scanners would welcome the opportunity to demonstrate their techniques on me.

Once the campaign is off the ground, and lie detection by MRI scanning performed on me, my defence in the witness interference case is shown to be absolutely 100% true and the conviction will be overturned, and in the process your credibility destroyed.

No doubt some bright journalist will offer you a large sum of money to take those tests, giving you an opportunity to prove that you are telling the truth, an offer you will have to decline thus destroying what little credibility you might have left.

Once the witness interference conviction is overturned I can go back and deal with the assault case. It will be me and five independent witnesses against George. You won't be part of it, you'll have been shredded by the press long before we get to that stage, come to think of it so will George.

So it's up to you. I know you won't believe the campaign is going well until some journalist who is writing about it phones you up.

I will shortly be telling the press about the campaign. Strangely enough holding back to try and help you has worked out well. Things are getting better every day as each party that decides to help forces the next to come on board, and each party tries to go one step further. I won't give you any detail, you'll find out soon enough.

Journalists will google my name, find out about my convictions, and I will tell them the following three things.

1. That I was found guilty of a 'vicious and sustained assault' yet the Doctors report clearly states that the only injury suffered by the victim was a black eye, and the journalists will be shown that report. I will tell them all other evidence is being held back from them for now as the matter is being resolved.
2. That I was convicted of Witness Interference because the jury were not allowed to see the written evidence and compare it with your statement in court. I will point out some of the smaller discrepancies, keeping back your worst lies.